The white columns are the "off" columns. The names listed above the line in these columns are the people on the toof, the names listed below the line are the people on the noff!

The gray columns are the "on" columns. The names listed above the line in this column are full summer staff that live in the cabins that are "on". The names listed below the line in this column are the full summer staff that are also "on" , but do not live in the cabins.

It's organized like this so people can easily figure out who on full summer is on/off for planning purposes like coverage or evening activities. If you're still confused, ask Santi! He'll be happy to help explain it more. -Hippo
